STEVE YOUNG

AUGUST 20, 2020

Day Automation & Aruba Invite You to Hear about Contact Tracing, Remote Connectivity and Networking Trends Then Join Us for a Private Conversation with Steve Young!

IT teams are turning to Aruba for guidance on how their current infrastructure can enhance new procedures being developed for contact tracing, and how augmenting their current systems might prove beneficial to monitor and enforce new policies.

Join us for an interactive discussion on how to maximize the utilization of technology assets and resources for contact tracing and remote connectivity as well as networking trends.

Then, as a thank you for attending, we'll join a separate session* with Steve Young!

Steve's professional football career spanned more than fifteen years in the NFL, primarily with the San Francisco 49ers, where he received numerous accolades, including Most Valuable Player of Super Bowl XXIX, Sports Illustrated and Sporting News' Player of the Year from 1992 - 1994 and the NFL's Most Valuable Player for 1992 and 1994. In 2005, Steve was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame, the first left-handed quarterback to be so honored. When he retired, Steve was the highest-rated quarterback in NFL history and has the distinction of being the only signal caller in league annals to win four consecutive NFL passing titles.

Steve's NFL was marked by a consistent standard of excellence that came from his own drive to be a little bit better every day. Always someone to help his fellow man and to celebrate those who did the same, he brought that same ethic to his charitable giving, eventually resulting in the creation of the Forever Young Foundation, which he co-chairs with his wife Barb.
